The Season for Giving is Now!

Most people think of the holiday season as the “season of giving”, but here on the East End, summer time is prime time for giving. It’s a different kind of giving...it actually is the “gift that keeps giving.” It’s Philanthropic giving. While there may not be ribbons and bows, there’s plenty of heart felt thank yours...from people, organizations and charities that truly make a difference everyday of the year. Here at Town & Country we are honored to give to so many but in particular, the Peconic Land Trust and Fighting Chance. This year we chose to not only gift significantly to these two in particular, but also donate our time, energy, and knowledge.

If you should get an opportunity to be a part of one of these boards or committees, we assure you, you will be amazed at the intelligence and selflessness that these individuals gift to their cause with no trepidation. So whether you find it in your heart to give monetarily to preserve land for future generations to enjoy, or donate your skills to keeping the arts and music available for all, or possibly you’ve been personally touched by the Angels who come into our lives to help us at the most vulnerable time of sickness and death – whatever your passion, we implore you to find one and give generously – donate your time, skills and/or money. There is nothing more rewarding than knowing you have given of yourself to something much greater and to something that will be here for generations to come.
