An 8-acre estate on Swamp Road in East Hampton is on the market with an asking price of $1.749 million. Located in Northwest Woods, the property, which cannot be subdivided, is adjacent to a wildlife preserve that stretches for more than 300 acres.

"Unlike any other house on the market, the estate feels like a mountain house getaway," said listing agent William Stoecker, with Town & Country Real Estate, specifically citing the home's "mountainous architecture" and "tree house feel."

The 3,000-square-foot home has four bedrooms and 3.5 baths, with custom wainscoting and woodworking throughout. The entire house was recently updated with a HEPA filtration system that dehumidifies, as well as UV light sanitizing, which purifies the air inside the home. There is also a swimming pool, tennis court and direct access to Larkin Pond, which was originally a peat bog, according to Mr. Stoecker.

The property once belonged to political correspondent Sherrye Henry, who had it custom-built in 1987. Ms. Henry was featured in the 2005 documentary "Running in High Heels" alongside Democratic presidential hopeful Hillary Clinton.

In 1994, Ms. Henry sold the property to its current owner, who is apparently looking to move to Maine.
