

A stunning Shinnecock bayfront home with endless views sells for $5.4M

Bill White and Bryan Eure recently sold their house, Bay Bluff, in Southampton's Atterbury Estates section for $5.4M. White, the former president of the Intrepid Sea, Air, and Space Museum and now CEO of Constellation Group, and Eure, SVP at Willis Towers Watson, purchased the 3600 square foot house in 2015 for $2.3M and transformed it. Architect Bill Suk of Suk Design, who worked on the renovations at the Intrepid Museum and with the couple on their Chelsea townhouse, helped with the renovation, while Bryan Eure did the interior design.

The house was designed to maximize the views of Shinnecock Bay, Meadow Lane, and the Atlantic Ocean. On just over half an acre, there's a waterside pool and spa and steps down to the beach. The interiors are light and bright, mostly white but with blue accents for the seaside feel. Congrats to the new owners!
