

HARRISON DURMUS JOINS TOWN & COUNTRY REAL ESTATE

Laura Euler | February 8, 2018

After many years working in travel and tourism in New York City, Harrison Durmus set down roots on the East End. He's joined Town & Country as an agent, because, he says, when he bought his house in Southampton, "I worked with Town & Country Real Estate and came to appreciate the care and attention given to me by our agent. It was clear to me that I wanted to be part of that environment. I wanted to work with a brokerage that is a family who truly cares about its agents, clients, and customers as well as the Hamptons and North Fork lifestyle we all love."

"I need to interact with people and move around, networking and showing houses feeds that passion," says Harrison. "Real estate is the perfect combination of my love of learning in an ever-evolving market and my drive to build business."

When he's not managing listings, Harrison can be found on the slopes snowboarding (he's partial to Colorado), hiking in Quogue, touring the lighthouse in Montauk, and enjoying the beaches in Westhampton. Congratulations, Harrison!
