

Teddy Roosevelt's Grandson's Long Island Home Sells For $3.57 Million

Jennifer Gould | January 19, 2023

The grandson of Teddy Roosevelt once lived in this now-sold North Fork house. Corbis via Getty Images; Town & Country Real Estate

An estate in Orient Point, NY, once owned by President Theodore Roosevelt's late grandson, the composer and pianist Joseph Willard Roosevelt, has sold for $3.57 million.

The Long Island home sits on 5.7 acres.

Roosevelt and his wife, Carol Adele (Russell) Roosevelt, had commissioned local architect Elizabeth Thompson, who still resides in Orient Village, to design and build their home on the North Fork.

The estate includes a private lane lined with sycamore trees that lead to the home.

At 2,900 square feet, it comes with three to four bedrooms, three baths, two fireplaces, a music room, a den and a screened-in porch.

The country home sits on 5.7 acres in Orient Point, NY. Google

The estate's landscaping includes a pond, fruit trees, perennials along with herb and vegetable gardens. Town & Country Real Estate

The Long Island home is 2,900 square feet. Town & Country Real Estate

The landscaping includes a pond, fruit trees, perennials, herb and vegetable gardens and several outbuildings.

The listing broker was Lori Feilen of Town & Country Real Estate.